

Eleven Squadmen Return For Tiger Race In District

Thirty-one prospective high school baseball players answered the first calls this week from Coach Boyd Payne for the Tigers 1949 District 9-A season.

Eleven veterans of last year's squad were among those that turned out for practice. Workouts have been light, because of wet and cold weather, but the practice sessions will intensify if the sun decides to shine soon, Coach Payne indicated.

The eleven squadmen returning are Rayborn Matthews, Jerry Caton, Walter Bond, Charles Bristow, Bobby Stagg, Elbert Berry, Jerral Owens, Johnny Crawford, Jimmy Kirkland, Frank Warfield and Harvey Holmes.

"Without having had too good a look at them," Payne said Wednesday, "I'd say that we'll have a fair outfield, good infield, fair catching, and the pitching being the big question mark."

He indicated that Walter Bond, Jerry Caton, O. E. Scarborough and Lewis Mathison appear to be the best pitching prospects he has at present, but said that they will be changed in the light of subsequent workouts.

The full roster consists of: Rayborn Matthews, George Lee, Jerry Caton, Walter Bond, O. E. Scarborough, Charles Bristow, Troy Holcomb, Jack Hobbs, Bobby Stagg, Elbert Berry, Donald Soape, Johnny Yarbrough, Jerral Owens, Wynne Woolley, Wayne Gagne.

Duane Nutt, Johnny Crawford, John David, J. C. Coffey, Jack Sisco, Jimmy Kirkland, Jack Bowden, Fred Jacobs, Bobby Jacobs, Lewis Mathison, Duane Dawson, Frank Warfield, Harvey Holmes, Paul Rash, Herbert Wilcox and Tony Onstott.

The final tabulations in the YMCA basketball league, which ended its 1949 season Monday night, showed that the Gainers Jewelers of Ennis not only won the league title, but one of their players walked off with high scoring honors for the season.

Baker, the Jeweler center, averaged 14.3 points per game for a season total of 187 points. He was trailed by John Dempsey, P. and S. Pharmacist cager, who racked up 175 points in 15 games.

will have further evidence that America's striking power could be provoked into action not alone by an attack on the United States. It could be set off by an attack on any of the other countries in the North Atlantic alliance.

So far as the State department is concerned, the flight apparently was not made primarily as a sabbath rattling gesture—whatever meaning other countries may attach to it. It seems to have been conceived as an effort by the air force—perhaps with an eye on congressional appropriations—to prove that such a thing could be done.

But officials confirmed today that the proposal was put before the state department and it was cleared there.

In the summer of 1948 an earlier proposal was publicly announced by the air force for a round-the-world flight. The United States then was negotiating with Russia and other nations in the Paris peace conference.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at the Paris meeting and under Secretary Dean Acheson—now secretary—in Washington felt it was a bad time to do anything that might rock the diplomatic boat.

So Acheson, as the man on the job in Washington, blocked the plan and a possible irritant to Russia was avoided.

Propaganda Attack
The expectation here is that Moscow will loose a big propaganda assault on the flight, attacking it as a new evidence of American war mongering. American officials feel, however, that the Russian arguments on that point no longer win them any new following here or abroad.

Two points of caution about reliance on military power are heavily underscored by the nation's foreign policy makers.

One is that the Russians also have long range planes and if the cold war ever turned hot the United States would have to be prepared to take as well as hand out widespread destruction from bombing.

The other point is that if the fight with Moscow-directed Communism is to be won it will be won by other than strictly military means—by making the West so healthy, economically and politically—that Communist "international aggression" will be unable to succeed in wrecking nations from the inside.

Texans Urged To Defend Tidelands By Bascom Giles

HOUSTON, March 3.—(AP)—It is time for Texans to fight again for their independence—in defense of the oil-rich tidelands, State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles believes.

Speaking here yesterday before the sons and daughters of the Republic of Texas, Giles said the federal government's attitude toward the tidelands transcends the right of private property.

Giles spoke on the anniversary of Texas independence.

Hugh Drane Home Entered And $425 In Cash Is Taken

A lone burglar crept into the Hugh Drane residence on West Second Avenue early Tuesday, snatched up $425 and hastily fled before the victim's eyes.

The money was taken off a chest of drawers in a bedroom where Mr. and Mrs. Drane were sleeping, reported Deputy Sheriff R. E. Jones, who investigated.

Entering through an unlocked side door, the thief caused Mrs. Drane to awake as he prowled through the room, the officers said. She called to the burglar, thinking he was her husband. The intruder then darted out of the house, just as Drane was awakening.

The sheriff's office was called shortly afterwards, about 1:30 a. m.

Only the cash was taken, Jones reported, and a quantity of jewelry and furs was not touched.

Eels Seem To Go Their Way With "Radar" Eyes

NEW YORK—Electric eels seem to have some strange electrical "radar" to find their way despite poor eyesight.

C. W. Coates, curator and aquarist of the New York Aquarium, New York Zoological Society, told about it in displaying some electric eels to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The electric eels come from tropical South America. They grow four to seven feet long and can develop a wallop of 600 volts. Sometimes they kill horses or cattle.

But they all have poor eyesight. It may be due to damage from its own shocks, or those of its fellow eels, Coates said. The eel lives in murky swamp water, but can find living things quickly and easily. It can locate a wall placed in the water, or an electrical discharge.

It apparently does it by an apparatus that works on the principle of radar, Coates said. Radar sends out high-frequency radio pulses, and records the echoes bouncing back from a target.

When the electric eel tries to locate something, one of its three "batteries" or electrical organs starts discharging, sending out electrical pulses. The rate increases as it gets more excited.

And the fish seems to have some kind of receptor organs, other than its eyes or ears or nose, to find its "target", Coates added. These seem to be located in enlarged pores around the eel's head.

"We have been unable to find anything of particular interest beneath these pores, so far. But if they are removed or insulated, the fish does not seem able to find its way about. It would almost seem as if these are the receptors end of an electrical finding apparatus."

The electric eel is not an eel at all, but is shaped like one, and hence its name. Its electricity is chemically produced. It is one of half a dozen kinds of electrical fish now living.

Nineteen hundred years ago, one physician made patients with gout stand on an electric fish "until the foot and leg up to the knee had become numb."

Today, study of how the eel creates and transmits its electricity promises to help in understanding the chemical-electric action of nerve impulses in humans.

Corsicana's Need For More Homes Topic Of Meeting

Homes for the man whose monthly paycheck ranges from $200 to $300 were discussed Tuesday night before a well attended meeting of Corsicana construction representatives by officials of the Federal Housing Administration.

The session was held in the directors room of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was full.

R. E. Shepherd of Dallas, district director, told the group that with a little more effort on the part of labor and everybody connected with the building industry, the smaller-type homes can be provided.

Lower Cost Housing
"This program was started months ago when it became evident the country needed lower cost housing," Shepherd added. "There seemed to be plenty of big expensive houses for those who could afford to spend $25,000 to $30,000, but none for the man making $200 a month."

Other speakers at the session, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, were Eugene G. Neely, chief underwriter, Richard T. Carmody, assistant chief director, Herschel D. Smith Jr., chief construction examiner, Claude Hartman, mortgage credit examiner, Temple Phinney, construction examiner, Stuart Burke, valuator, and D. L. Donohue, subdivision valuator of the F.H.A. L. F. White, Veterans Administration chief appraiser of Waco also attended.

All Phases Covered
The discussion, heard by Corsicana, Ennis and Fort Worth builders, including both contractors and material wholesalers and retailers and financing agency representatives, covered land planning, design, construction and the various plans of home financing including conventional types as well as F.H.A. insured loans and veterans loans guaranteed by the F.H.A.

The principal theme of the setting was the apparent need for the construction of small homes and lower-cost rental projects for people in the average income brackets.

Special emphasis was made on a new F.H.A. insured loan which reduces the amount of down payment on new homes valued at $6,350 or less to only 5 percent, and increases the term of the mortgage to 30 years.

The monthly payment on such a loan—$6,000 for a 30-year term—would amount to $32.88 with a down payment of only $350 on a house valued by the F.H.A. at $6,350, it was pointed out.

Herman Brown, manager of the chamber, introduced Shepherd.

Red Cross Quota Oversubscribed In Kerens Monday

Kerens residents, whose hands are always dashing in and out of their pockets, led the field to the wire Tuesday by oversubscribing the American Red Cross quota a day before the campaign opened. The month-long campaign to raise $13,300 in Navarro County was in full swing Tuesday as the general solicitation section went to work.

Howell Brister, secretary of the Kerens Chamber of Commerce, informed J. Floyd Smith, cashier of the First National Bank and general chairman of the 1949 drive, that the Kerens community had obtained its $500 quota and more.

The report was the first concrete one received, although one report on the local advance gifts drive showed $1,600 had been raised here.

The second part of the campaign is aimed at the smaller donors, the $1 and $2 givers who each year contribute to the organization.

Those working on the advance gifts drive were again urged to make their financial reports to the executive office.

Part of the advance gifts part of the campaign is $8,500. It is hoped to raise $1,100 from employees in the business district, and $850 from those in commerce and industry.

Those working on the advance gifts drive were again urged to make their financial reports to the executive office.

Money To Battle Soil Erosion Is Available Here

Navarro county farmers will receive $130,000 worth of federal assistance in halting soil erosion during 1949, Triple A Secretary Bob Clague reported Thursday.

The funds make up the government's allocation for this year. They will help farmers carry out approved soil erosion preventing practices, Clague said.

The official said his office's assistance "in actual money" will pay from 50 to 80 percent of the following approved practices in Navarro county:

1. Terraces.
2. Vegetative waterways.
3. Soddier grasses.
4. Construction of stock water dams and spreader dams and damless tanks. (Payment is based on material moved.)
5. Establishing and improving pastures.

The ACA office also assists in paying about 50 to 80 percent for carrying out soil building procedures, which include green manure, winter cover crop of summer legumes, cover legumes and application of superphosphate.

Regulations governing the approved practices, and the assistance or payment offered farmers may be determined through the county or community committee-men or the Triple-A office in the courthouse, Clague said.

Eligible in the program, he added.

Quarterly Meet Of Ministers Is Held At Coolidge

A district meeting for quarterly reports of Methodist ministers was held Monday at Coolidge with twenty of twenty-five charges represented in the attendance. Wives of the ministers also were included.

Dr. Finis Crutchfield, district superintendent, reported that there was a hopeful trend in all phases. Membership, attendance, the Program of Advance, the pension plan and other matters of interest were discussed.

Special guests for the meeting were Dr. P. E. Riley, director of the pension program; Dr. Edmund Heinsohn, pastor of the University Methodist Church, Austin; and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Vessey, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dr. Heinsohn is conducting the preaching mission throughout the week at First Methodist Church, where Mr. Vessey is acting as director of music. They attended with Dr. and Mrs. Erwin F. Bohm-falk of First Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Vessey brought a number of musical contributions to the fellowship meeting.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon. While reports were being discussed by the ministers, their wives met apart for a period of informal discussion. Experiences in the parsonage home was the basic theme of the discussion.

Mrs. Gid J. Bryan, Wortham, was a devotional speaker.

BOYLE'S Column

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK—Once upon a time there was a greedy little man who wanted the whole world for himself.

He was a sickly little man, with thin hands and feet, and a head too large for his body.

His feet were always cold. He would lie in hot water for hours, claiming the cold was locked in his bones.

Not for one moment did he consider himself effeminate, though he had wide hips and narrow shoulders, like a woman, and a complexion as fair as a girl's. In fact, women adored him. A look from him and they were at his feet. He had seven mistresses.

He had a mania for being on the winning side. He could not bear to lose, even at games. When his friends played chess with him, they tried hard to lose. They even sent out for players who were less skilled than he.

One day a preacher's son tried to kill him. The plot miscarried, and the boy was dragged into his presence. They searched him and found a knife and the portrait of a pretty girl. The portrait fascinated him.

"You wanted to kill me?" "Yes, I intended to kill you." "Whose portrait is this?" "The girl I love."

"If I let you go... I suppose it would gladden the heart of this girl."

"Then I shall be able to kill you again."

He looked at the young man sadly. The face in the portrait could have won so easily, with a little help. He nodded to his henchmen, and left the room.

His whole life was a preposterous tragedy.

Every word I have said about this extraordinary little man is preserved in his letters and papers, and can be read by anybody.

So unusual a man deserved an unusual name. It would have been an irony for him to be called Smith, or Jones.

But he was spared that commonplace. His name was very unusual. It was Napoleon Bonaparte.

PRINCE CASE

1932, he was employed by the Dr. Pepper company as a driver and delivered drinks to various places of business in Rice. He farmed two years and entered the employ of M. Evans in 1934 and frequently visited Evans' home. He was a wine selling Studebaker and had seen S. B. South since 1930. Later he worked for Gillen Chevrolet Company in Blooming Grove and on June 20, 1938, appraised a second-hand car for the Norris-Hamilton by South and South was present. He said he had seen South a number of times and had spoken to him.

Prince recalled that he saw South at Bishop's place last summer, spoke to him and asked him to drink a Coca Cola with him. South declined with the statement that he had just had a drink. He testified he had been in the cattle business most of the past four years, and had bought cattle at auctions in Corsicana, Ennis, Groesbeck, Waco, Athens, Crockett, and Alice. Prince said he frequently carried large sums of cash—from $3,000 to $4,000 at a time. He frequently cashed checks on other banks and then deposited the cash in the First National Bank, he continued.

Not at Bank.

"I was not in the First State Bank in Rice on August 11, I never have been in that bank," Prince stated under direct examination. He said he was unable to recall while in jail following his arrest on November 7 where he was on August 11, but did determine his actions after his release when he had checked up on receipts, etc., that refreshed his memory. He had thought he was with Robert M. Cooksey, he continued.

Prince testified he purchased a sack of feed and oats at the McCoolpin Grain company between 9 and 10 a. m. and was in a 1942 Chevrolet. He went to Joe York's and paid a bill and then to Paul Mitchell's hardware establishment where he purchased bolts and hinges for use on an old barn on his farm. He said he intended going to his farm in the morning, but didn't make that trip until about sundown.

O. L. Albritton asked him to go to the Albritton's ranch at Rural Shade to look at some cattle, the defendant asserted. Albritton went home to lunch and told him to meet him at the Day and Night Cafe.

The defendant took his car to Norris-Hamilton's for a wash and grease job while he was away and after getting a sandwich at Roy's Cafe, went to the Norris-Hamilton Garage and joined Albritton, driving Albritton's car.

Stopped at Barn.

Albritton and the defendant stopped at Jones' auction barn and invited Jones to go with them. He declined as he must move cows the following day, and then the two men proceeded to Rural Shade he said.

Prince said he and Albritton left Corsicana at 12 noon or 12:05 p. m. on August 11, went to the auction barn and then to the Albritton ranch and came back to Corsicana between 3 p. m. and 4 p. m.

The defendant then went to Norris-Hamilton for his car and heard "the boys" discussing the Rice bank robbery. His car had been washed, but not greased, and he went home, joined his wife and went to the farm to take the oats, bolts and hinges, returning home about 8 or 8:30 p. m.

Witnesses used prior to the time the defendant took the stand included: C. L. Albritton, director of the First National Bank who buys and sells cattle. He said he and Prince made three trips to see cattle and on one occasion they went to his ranch at Rural Shade to see a cow.

Prince admitted he was left-handed and would hold a pistol in his left hand. He didn't recall seeing FBI Agent James Bookout he was at the Norris-Hamilton place all day August 11 except for about 30 minutes for lunch. He also didn't recall telling the sheriff that he was asleep in his car at his home.

He denied attempting to get Robert M. Cooksey to say he (Prince) was with him on the date of the robbery. He said he went to Cooksey's house after his release, and asked if they were together on that date and Cooksey told him he did not recall but would check-up.

The defendant said he had met South several times including at Pollan's Place, but didn't recall who introduced them. He said South called him by name at Bishop's place. He denied asking Pete Daniel to tell him he was asleep in his car at his home.

Said Bill Keopake.

Under continued cross-examination, he explained where many of the $2 bills came from, but other transactions were not recalled. He remembered three $2 bills in the morning game he won. He denied he returned to the Herod station to retrieve the $2 paid on a bill ers anything—that Rogers did all the talking. He denied being at Bishop's place with Prince and the Rice robbery were in circulation, but he recalled seeing Prince at Bishop's place. He then said he had never seen Prince prior to August 11.

Evidence Ruled Out.

James Bookout, FBI agent, was recalled for impeaching O'Daniel's defense sought to withdraw O'Daniel's testimony, but state objected. After the testimony was adduced, Judge Davidson ruled out O'Daniel's evidence and Bookout's referring to it.

Bookout testified that O'Daniel said Prince sought to have him say he (Prince) was asleep at his barn at noon on August 11.

Bookout was present when Flores was questioned, he said, and he was not threatened or intimidated. He said he was charged with the defendant told him on November 9 that he spent the entire day on August 11 at the Norris-Hamilton place except during 30 minutes noon hour. He also said Prince told him he had made approximately $3,000 on cattle and $300 on used cars in 1948.

David Castles, sheriff of Navarro county, said that he recalled him (Prince) was at Norris-Hamilton's all day August 11 except 30 minutes for lunch. Castles stopped Grimes in Dallas county until Dallas city police arrived to take him in custody on a Wyoming charge. He said he told Grimes (the Grimes) was suspected in the Rice robbery and he took him to Corsicana.

Sheriff On Stand.

Castles testified that after South had seen Grimes, the suspect was turned back to Dallas officers.

The sheriff denied ever seeing an Albritton article quoting him as telling Sheriff Dean Holliman that Grimes had been charged with the Rice robbery. He said South never identified Grimes as the man.

DALLAS, March 1.—The government paraded 26 witnesses in two hours of court Tuesday morning in the trial of Ollie Prince, Corsicana, in connection with the robbery of the First State Bank at Rice, August 4, 1948.

Judge T. Whitfield Davidson presided over the proceedings. The trial opened yesterday with the defendant entering a plea of innocence when arraigned.

He was identified by S. B. South, assistant cashier of the bank, as the one responsible for taking the money.

Most of the witnesses this morning described the handling of various types of currency from the defendant, including ones, twos and larger denominations.

A number of the state witnesses on cross-examination said that the defendant had a good reputation for being a peaceful and law abiding citizen and also for truth and veracity.

J. N. Garitty, vice president of the First National Bank, the first witness, identified two $2 bills, one received from John H. Brown and the other from Gene Whaley—both of which were turned over to FBI Agent Cotton.

Brown, recalled, said he received one $2 bill in a deposit from the Rice bank, Nov. 3. He said Prince was a good reputation in Corsicana.

Fred McAmann, treasurer for the theatre, identified a $2 bill in daily receipts at Palace, Mrs. I. V. Redden said she received the bill from a woman in the afternoon and an older woman was with her; Mrs. Thomas Glasgow said she spent the $2 at the Palace, and received it from her husband, and Mrs. Sawyer said she with her.

J. Thomas Glasgow said he received the bill from Ben Borden in a poker game in the Beaton Hotel, the second or third Sunday in October, and said Borden earlier had sought to have the bill changed at Shorty Murphy's.

Sam C. Cotton, FBI agent, identified a bill he received from J. N. Garitty, one from J. H. Brown, and one from Gene Whaley, man, said he received the $2 bill from Mrs. Ovie Mahoney, Nov. 3, on an insurance premium. Mrs. Mahoney said she received the bill from her husband, Pete Mahoney, who received it at his cafe. He kept the bill but later turned it over to the FBI. He said the defendant did not give him the bill in question.

Marvin E. Pash, FBI, Dallas, secured two bills from Jo Etta Hamer, 12, of Quitque, Texas, and the little girl said her uncle, Otis Oliver Young, gave them to her and a sister.

Walter D. McCullough, FBI, Fort Worth, said he secured a $2 bill from Otis Young at Dublin.

Eight $2 bills were introduced. Walter Knight, filling station operator, said the defendant gave him a $2 in payment for a bill at the Herod station and later in the afternoon returned and secured the bill with the statement he made in mistake and wanted to keep the bill. Prince was given back the bill.

Paul Moore, Daily Sun reporter, testified relative to issues of the Sun on August 25 and November 9, last year, while Harvey Lee Carlisle, Jr. Route 1, Purdon, who hauled hay for the defendant about Nov. 4, said he saw a $2 bill in the possession of Prince. Prince told him, he said, he was collecting those bills. He said Prince told him (Prince) would make the witness out as a liar if he said anything about seeing a $2 bill.

Rosa George White, Norris-Hamilton employee, said she exchanged 50 ones for larger bills. That Prince too had paid off notes in currency.

M. R. Shipp, grocer, changed 30 ones for three tens and Mrs. Shipp changed 50 ones for two tens after the robbery for the defendant. Mrs. Shipp said Prince was in the used car business.

Warren S. Herod, filling station man, exchanged 60 ones and other currency for higher denominations. C. S. McGeehan, filling station man, said he was offered $2 ones for change but took only 40 of them. Prince told him that he had secured them in a car deal, he said.

Ernest J. McGaugh, teller of State National Bank, said that he changed about 11 hundred dollars worth of fives and tens for the defendant last fall after the robbery and on cross-examination, said that the defendant was in the used car and cattle business and he had cashed checks for him on numerous occasions. He also said Prince enjoyed a good reputation.

Glaude L. White testified that an entry was made at the McCoolpin Grain Company for four bushels of oats sold to the defendant on August 11, the day of the robbery. He said he estimated the entry was about 9 a. m. He had cashed checks for Prince and once changed 50 ones for larger bills.

He said Prince had a good reputation in Corsicana.

Mrs. Mildred Seely, employee of auction barn, said Prince paid $20 in fives in October. She said he was a good customer at the B. J. Jones auction barn here.

Wm. F. Murchison of the General American Finance Company, Corsicana, said he changed ones for larger bills twice last fall, once for 60 and the other time 75. He said Prince's used car lot was only one block from his place and that Prince had worked for his concern. He accorded him a good reputation.

Mrs. Modena Megarity, employee at the finance company, said Prince offered to exchange small currency for larger but that she would not make the exchange. Wm. L. Stough, employee of Joe York, said he exchanged 35 to 50 ones for larger bills and on cross-examination said the defendant said he was with him firm, was in the store on the morning of the bank robbery at Rice and paid a bill.

He accorded him a good reputation.

The government is expected to rest during the afternoon.

Monday Afternoon Session

The most sensational development in the trial at the Monday afternoon session came when Joe Flores of Corsicana repudiated the truth of a statement exhibited by J. C. Jacobs, defense counsel, signed by the witness, who declared he did make the statement through fear of Prince, but that it was untrue.

He said that the defendant had warned him to keep his "mouth shut" about the $2 bills in a dice game, and that he (Flores) was afraid of Prince, but not of the FBI. He accused Jacobs of writing the untrue statement after he (Flores) had told him that he (Flores) was making the statement because of fear.

The government paraded a flock of witnesses in tracing the movements and handling of some of the $2 bills in question after S. B. South, assistant cashier of the First State Bank at Rice, underwent a cross-examination to open the afternoon session.

The government attorney brought out from South that the $4002 taken by a bandit from the First State Bank at Rice.

South Cross-Examined

South said he had been born and reared in Rice, 15 miles north of Corsicana, and then described the dirty or greasy hat and "duster" type coat worn by the man who took the money at the point of a pistol.

South said he had worked with dice 32 years and in 1930-1931-1932 also worked at the bank, but denied knowing Prince as a Dr. Pepper truck driver. He said he never saw Prince before the day of the robbery.

When questioned about buying cotton from Earl Prince, a brother of the defendant, South said he did not remember buying cotton from him, but he recalled that Earl Prince did banking business in Rice and resided on the Porton farm.

Knew Raymond Grimes

South testified he knew Raymond Grimes, one suspect in the robbery, relative to the robbery of the bank, and denied ever identifying him as the one responsible. He admitted he visited Welby Bishop, but denied he said he might be taken care of by Prince, holding he "ought to know who put the gun on me."

South said he did not know W. D. Thorndorf, desk sergeant at the Corsicana police department, and denied identifying him as the man who told Prince he was "similiar."

Purchases Auto

The banker said he purchased a car from Norris-Hamilton Auto Company—a 1936 coupe, trading in a used car, but denied the defendant appraised his car, asserting the deal was made in Rice, and he did not appraise the car. He denied ever seeing the defendant until the day of the robbery.

South said he knew the Rev. L. L. Griffin, Baptist minister, formerly of Corsicana, and denied telling the minister or anyone else that he did not know the robber. He also denied telling Alton Rogers the same thing.

Under further questioning, South said that the August 11 robbery was the first daylight job on the First State Bank at Rice and a burglary was committed in the night-time on a previous occasion. He said he had stated that he was responsible was 1 or 1 1/2 inches taller. The attorneys for Prince had the two men to stand close together and Prince appeared several inches taller than South.

Ben F. Borden on Stand

Ben F. Borden, 1112 West Elmwood, Corsicana, detailed a dice game, in October, last year, in which Prince was involved, on Prince's used-car lot. He told of a game in the morning and a session during the afternoon. Walter Tumlinson and Joe Flores were in the game during the morning.

Borden said he lost about $40 during the morning, and a $2 bill into the game and Prince or Tumlinson won it. The same men were in the afternoon game, plus Mr. Young.

Borden later said he cashed a $25 check at the Hodges grocery paid a grocery bill and received the remainder in change and returned to the game in the afternoon. He testified that it occurred on October 14 and that 15 or 20 $2 bills were put into the game by the defendant. He said Prince applied he won them in a game at the Hopkins gin when asked where the $2 bills came from. Borden went home and borrowed $5, he said, from the defendant and then won 13 or 14 of the $2 bills and ended the game with 9 or 10 of them. He spent 2 at Harris and Jacobs for a shirt, one or two for gas, lost five to Pete Mahoney in domino games and turned one over to John H. Brown of the First National Bank in Corsicana. He said he did not hear of a dice game at the Hopkins gin and then added he (Borden) lost one of the bills to Glasgow in a poker game.

Brown Gets Bill

The witness said that Brown took the $2 bill and gave him two ones for it and he (Borden) told Brown he got it from Prince. He told of a conversation he said he held with the defendant at the Green Lantern Cafe and discussed his statements to the FBI. He quoted the defendant as saying to him that he shouldn't be drinking and that he could have told the FBI men that he (Borden) got the bills.

Under cross-examination, Borden said he was called "Termites," a nickname caused by his work as a termite exterminator. He admitted he purchased seat covers for a 1942 Ford automobile owned by his girl friend the day following the robbery. He described his four brothers with reference to their ages and the color of their hair.

Tumlinson said he was employed by Prince and participated in the dice games. He said that Borden put a $2 bill in the morning game and Prince put 2 or 3, but in the afternoon game he put 15 or 20 $2 bills and he saw the defendant alone put $2 bills into the play during the afternoon. He said he won two of them and took them to the Wiley and Prince.

On cross-examination, the witness said the $2 bills he received were good ones. He quoted "Termites" Borden as saying he passed $2 as $20 sometimes on unsuspecting old men and women for cigars, etc. (Such a practice had been denied previously by Borden when questioned along those lines.)

Tumlinson quoted Borden as saying he could lie and the witness maintained he declined to do anyone. Borden was armed and drinking when the conversation took place, according to Tumlinson.

On re-direct examination following a 10-minute recess, Tumlinson said that he saw one except Prince put $2 into the afternoon dice game.

Oliver Young Testifies

Oliver Young, Dublin, formerly of Corsicana, now attending a veteran's watchmaking school in Dublin, said he paid $2,100 for a car and had Norris-Hamilton Motor Company to finance the same. He introduced the bills into the game, and then told of his disposition of the seven bills and to missa La Quintaque, one to a Tank Street Cafe, one to a negro for a keep-sake, and one to the FBI agent.

He said Prince later told him if he had any of the bills, "Burn the damn thing," and added that he (Prince) had heard that similar bills from the Rice bank was floating around.

He said Prince attempted to find out from him what he (Young) had told the FBI.

Under cross-examination, Young said he did not know where Prince got the bills. He said he had been drinking until 4 a. m. the morning he was arrested, but he said he didn't deny being drunk at that time.

Joe Flores Denials

Flores' testimony started out similar to previous witnesses relative to the dice game in question, and said the defendant had declared he secured the bills in a poker game.

Flores then said the defendant came to his (Flores) house and warned him to keep his mouth shut about the $2 bills in the dice game, and for me to "tell 'em he (Prince) didn't have any $2 bills."

He asserted that after he had talked to the FBI, the defendant told him he shouldn't have told what he did—but that it was Ben to his wife. Magness testified he received it at the Floyd Hardy store on South Seventh street and gave it to Eaves.

Floyd Hardy testified the $2 bill went to Magness from his cash register, and his wife, Mrs. Marie Hardy, said she received two of the bills from a man for the purchase

CORSICANA, TEX., MAR. 4, 1949

SHOE ON THE OTHER FOOT

Last May keen interest was shown throughout the nation in a new development in the field of labor relations. The General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers had negotiated a two-year contract providing for raising or lowering the wage scale automatically according to fluctuations in the cost of living index as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The scheme was seen as one which might obviate yearly negotiations on contracts, and so help to stabilize relations between management and labor on a long term basis.

Last September this contract operated to give workers a wage boost of three cents an hour, because of a rise in the cost of living. Now a decline in the cost of living indicates that the wage rate will fall two or three cents. No complaints were heard when the wage went up. But now that it seems likely to go down, a large local union in Cleveland has asked that the contract be re-opened to prevent the drop.

It remains to be seen whether the parent union will give any serious consideration to the request. But the mere fact that a local has made the suggestion is a hard blow to the hopes which had been raised. A contract which is supposed to be fair to both worker and employer is of no value if one party is unwilling to let the other party reap any benefits from it. Is it really good sportsmanship to try to back down from the pledged word?

PROPHET OF UNION

Clarence Streit might suitably be called a "Major Prophet." As recently as September, 1938, he published his book "Union Now," calling for the formation of a world government. The appearance of a new post-war edition is a reminder of the distance that the world has gone in that time toward Streit's goal.

A world union seemed in 1938 as fantastic as the creation, in mid-space, of floating stations on the way to the moon. Now these floating stations appear to be seriously considered, and the projected Atlantic alliance is a long step toward Streit's kind of world government.

Streit would be the first to admit that he is not solely responsible for the growing acceptance of his idea. His best helpers have been two world figures named Hitler and Stalin.

READING FIGURES

All excited by a note in the day's news which said the average family was going to save $1 to $1.50 on the next week's meat bill, a bread-winner took pencil and paper to confirm it. He was sadly disillusioned.

Meat dealers were quoted as authority for the estimate of such a saving, "based on the assumption that a family of five buys 20 and 30 pounds of meat a week." Perhaps it is a petty point that the "average" family has not five members but sometimes less than four. Does the family of five buy twenty pounds of meat a week? If it did, the people of the United States would eat all of the meat produced in the ten leading meat-producing countries of the world, except Russia, for which figures are not available. It is a fair guess that there is not enough meat in the world, including Russia, to supply the people of the United States at the rate

You've a reputation started; you've succeeded in the past.
But a reputation isn't something guaranteed to last.
If you fail to work tomorrow as you labored yesterday.
You will find your reputation has begun to slip away.

It is sweet to hear the praises for the work that you have done.
But another goal is waiting which tomorrow must be won.
You must make one more failure with tomorrow's sterner test.
To maintain your reputation you will have to do your best.

THE SECRET TRIAL

An amazing point about the notorious secret trials ordered by a United States military commission in Munich, Germany, is that the decision to hold them apparently was made by the commission without submitting the question to any higher level of authority, in fact without even informing higher officials that secret trials were planned. The commission is headed by a brigadier general. An officer of such rank certainly should be sufficiently familiar with American trial practice to know how completely a secret trial offends American principles of justice, and to appreciate the great significance of the decision.

Gen. Lucius Clay, the military governor in Germany, was quite right in supposing that forces unfriendly to the United States might seize upon the incident for propaganda purposes. It was made to order for Communist propagandists. The mysterious prisoner for the first trial reportedly was lodged at Dachau, the very name of which struck terror to the German heart when Hitler ruled. This recalls the Dachau of the Nazi days, into which men were secretly whisked for committing unnamed crimes, and were never heard from again.

The Nazi practices of secret trial and execution shocked the world. Similar Soviet practices still do. It seems reasonable to suppose that the same practices, used by the United States, will also shock the world.

It is recalled that the United States part in the development of the Berlin crisis, a hub of disagreement between this country and Russia, was directed by decisions made at local levels of command in Berlin, apparently without consultation with higher officials. On that point there is similarity between the Berlin events and the Munich trial incident. A searching investigation of the Administration of American affairs in Germany seems to be indicated.

JAPAN'S DOUBLEDAY

Isoo Abe is dead. Both Japanese and Americans should remember him, for some sixty years ago he introduced baseball into Japan. He had learned the game while studying in the Hartford, Conn., Theological Seminary. His achievement won him the title of "father of baseball in Japan." He might thus be compared to Gen. Abner Doubleday, who has often been accredited with the invention of the game in this country, though rather doubtfully.

Japan is the principal exception to the rule that attempts to popularize baseball abroad have failed. The Japanese have really taken to the game, and show much skill at it. They are fast fielders, but their stature is too small for them to produce hard hitters. The Waseda University team has several times visited the United States, and come off creditably in its contests with American college nines.

It seems strange that the two countries with the greatest love of baseball should not so long ago have hated each other bitterly. Perhaps this mutual interest may help understanding in the future better than in the past.

HALF TRUE PROPHECY

Half of a prophecy made by the historian Edward Gibbon has come true. A fellow-historian, rummaging in his masterpiece, "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," discovered that Gibbon said of Fielding's novel, "Tom Jones," that it would "outlive the palace of Escorial and the imperial eagle of the house of Austria."

The Escorial, that sixteenth century Spanish palace which houses many notable manuscripts and paintings, is still standing and intact; but the imperial house of Austria, eagles and all, has been gone over since World War I, and probably never will be revived. But "Tom Jones" is still going strong, proving anew that the concepts of the intellect are longer lived than what may seem to be the most durable of political institutions.

FULFILLED PLEDGE

The Russians have just kept a treaty agreement and surrendered a battleship. The 29,150-ton British battleship Royal Sovereign was borrowed by Russia during the war, along with some other vessels, and now has been returned. The agreement was that Russia was to share in the spoils of the Italian war fleet, turned over to the Allies for reparations. When the Russians received their quota of Italian ships, they would return what they had borrowed. They have now done this in the case of the Royal Sovereign. Some other vessels, including American ships, have been returned.

In any case the Russians do not indiscriminately violate all treaties. There are some occasions when their word is good. Perhaps our diplomats will be able to find a way to estimate the limits of their trustworthiness.

THE TRIESTE QUESTION

After two years of deadlock, Russia is ready to agree on a governor for the Free Territory of Trieste. But the United States and Great Britain, which were eager to set up the Trieste government and withdraw their troops two years ago, now are afraid that if they do so a Communist coup will follow. From the beginning of the problem Russia has favored giving Trieste to Yugoslavia, and recently repeated that position publicly. Great Britain and the United States would prefer to return the city to Italy, which obtained it from Austria at the close of the First World War.

Experience with the free city scheme in this century has not been encouraging. Danzig was set up as a free city after the first war, on a plan similar to that scheduled for Trieste. Danzig always was a sore spot in the relations between Germany and Poland, in the period between the wars, and was linked to the Polish Corridor question to provide Hitler's chief excuse for beginning the war.

Many an American city government may think it would be a grand idea to be free, but freedom for a city is no bed of roses.

LOYALTY TESTS

While we are hearing so much these days of loyalty tests, here is one that seems to have been overlooked. In Reconstruction Days the Tennessee senate, by only one vote, failed to pass a bill requiring women to swear allegiance to the United States before they could be married.

Cynics may say that the outcome of the marriage ceremony pledge of the bride "to obey" indicates the test would not have meant much, anyway.

RUSSIAN EXPLORATION

A forgotten discoverer is coming into his own. The Russians are reviving the explorations of Baron Thaddeus Bellingshausen to justify their claims to a part in discussions about the Antarctic. Bellingshausen was indeed a great explorer, who traversed 42 degrees of longitude within the Antarctic Circle.

His predecessor, Captain James Cook, the first to cross the Circle, covered only 24 degrees. Bellingshausen also sighted the first Antarctic land, an island which he named after Czar Peter I. Only bad weather deprived him of the honor of being the first man to behold the Antarctic continent.

Because Bellingshausen's narrative was written in Russian, it has been unduly neglected. In 1946 it was at last translated into English, and henceforth the Russian explorer will be more apt to get his due. But his exploits do not necessarily entitle Russia to a share in the frozen lands around the South Pole, since they were never followed up.

MICOWEX

Micowex is teaching many American young men something about cold weather. Short for "Minor Cold Weather Exercise," Micowex is the name for the training for Arctic warfare now being conducted by the Navy. Special food, clothing and de-icing equipment are being tried out. The Navy frankly says they have not yet proved as satisfactory as it is hoped they will later.

But efforts at learning about weather are all to the good. The lessons of Micowex may help not only in preparing for deliberate excursions into the areas of severe cold, but also in dealing with the emergencies created by unusual weather conditions which upset normal life of an area.

Fire is a great destroyer, or a great creator, depending on how well it is controlled.

LEGISLATURE

until the senate votes on the bill and takes the heat off?"
"This is an effort to evade the issue," said Lamar Zivley of Temple, a co-author of the bill.
He voted against the bill two years ago and I'm certainly not afraid to state my stand today," Hanna said. "I'm not trying to joke this bill out of the legislature."

He moved to table Hanna's motion and Zivley's motion carried. That meant the bill stayed on the house calendar.
Overnight committee action indicated a tough fight is looming for the Glimmer-Alkin public school bills when they come up two weeks hence before the house education committee.

An indirect—and inconclusive—test of the bill's strength in the committee came last night. Strong advocates of Glimmer-Alkin legislation failed in their effort to keep Rep. Jimmy Horany's $2,400 teachers' minimum pay bill in committee for three weeks.

They lost by an 11-to-7 vote. Horany's proposal was sent to the house with a recommendation for passage. The latter action was by unanimous vote.

The G-A measures, two of which already have passed the senate, will be considered at a public hearing at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 16. The date was set yesterday by Mrs. Rae Ellis Still.

She is education committee chairman and one of house leaders for the bills.
Another explosive issue will re-open a public going-over one week from today. The house labor committee will hear arguments for and against Rep. Blake Timmons' bill revising 11 regulatory laws passed since 1940. The time is 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

Labor Backs Measure
Labor is supporting the measure. It will fight another proposition to be heard the same day, Rep. Douglas Bergman's bill making it a violation of Texas criminal anti-trust laws for labor and management to enter closed shop agreements.

Other legislative developments yesterday:
A bill to strengthen Texas liquor control laws was recommended for house passage. A proposed amendment to prevent advertising of liquor prices was killed.

The house committee on constitutional amendments split, 7 to 5, in favor of Rep. Frank B. McGreggor's resolution to lower the voting age to 18 years. The measure goes to the house. The Texas electorate would vote on the issue if both house and senate approve the idea.

Senate confirmation of Paul H. Brown of Harlingen as State Fire Insurance Commissioner seemed assured as the committee recommended favorable action. Opposition had been anticipated earlier.

Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg said he would "personally sponsor" Brown's nomination. Brown is former secretary of state and was Gov. Beauford H. Jester's campaign manager in both campaigns for the executive office.

The education committee heard of Horany's bill apparently boiled down to the issue of whether the measure should get consideration ahead of the Glimmer-Alkin bill.

Horany, committee vice-chairman, is one of the most outspoken critics of the proposed remodeling of the Texas public school system.

He viewed last night's vote as

"perhaps not an exact test (of Glimmer-Alkin strength) but certainly a very good one. He conceded that some members today voted with him and might also vote for the Glimmer-Alkin bills."

None of the committee opposed the idea of boosting the minimum pay from $2,000 to $2,400 a year for teachers with a Bachelor's degree and no teaching experience. Several said action on Horany's bill should be delayed until legislation is passed assuring money to pay higher salaries.

Horany said it was unconceivable that the legislature would pass his bill without also providing the money needed to accomplish the objective. Either an equalization appropriation bill which is also sponsoring or the Glimmer-Alkin financing bill will pass, and both set up pay schedules for a minimum $2,400 salary, he observed.

Appointments
The senate confirmed appointment of Paul H. Brown as State Fire Insurance Commissioner and rejected appointment of B. L. Autry of Dallas to the State Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists.

The action was taken in a 58-minute executive session.
No reason was given for Autry's rejection.

Five senators had objected to the other appointments were confirmed.
They were the three State Highway Commissioners, Fred Wemple of Midland, A. F. Mitchell of Corsicana and R. E. Felt of Edinburg; Hostie Thompson of Trinity; Public Safety Commissioner; H. L. Mills of Houston, member of the State Teachers Colleges Board of Regents; and the following: Five senators had objected to the appointments were confirmed.

The action followed the apparent dissolving of earlier senate opposition. His appointment was approved yesterday by the nominations committee.
Five senators had objected to today's executive session but were outvoted.

ment for autos will remain at one-third of the total price.

The action followed by only a few hours the board's report on installment figures for January.

The general drop for that month was $145,000,000, although credit on automobiles increased $14,000,000. Total consumer credit on January 31 amounted to $8,001,000,000. Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the senate-house economic committee, called the board's action "a clear illustration of the wise circles of government controls" and "a step that will tend to promote the distribution of inventories."

But Rep. Patman, chairman of the House Small Business Committee, told newsmen: "I'm disappointed. They should have extended the time of payments to at least 24 months, especially on automobiles. They are discriminating against a man with character who needs an automobile for business purposes. I think the board has demonstrated arbitrary action and it is an abuse of power."

Patman said he will not support a continuation of the credit control authority unless President Truman is given power to pass on rules and regulations set by the reserve board.

The authority expires June 30, unless continued. The wartime credit curbs were re-established in part last year as an anti-inflation measure.

Levi Resigns As Meat Inspector

The city was looking for its new meat inspector Thursday.
Mayor Hubert T. Bransell said Dr. W. R. (Buck) Matthews of Athens, recently given the job, had not reported to the city hall.

Arthur Levi, assistant meat inspector, turned in his stamps and record books at the city hall Wednesday afternoon and announced he had resigned.

Officials had given Levi an additional 15 days, but he declined to take it and resigned.

Mayor Bransell said he hoped to contact Dr. Matthews during the day.

Texas City Plans Mass Meeting To Discuss Strike

TEXAS CITY, March 3.—(AP)—Texas City Mayor L. A. Robinson has called a mass meeting for 2 p. m. Sunday in an effort to settle the wage strike of 1,400 men at Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp.

The meeting will be held in the high school football stadium to give company and union officials "an opportunity to state their side of the controversy." The strike is more than a month old.

Texas Rangers sent here to survey the situation, yesterday reported "everything pretty peaceful."

Ed J. Fox, assistant plant superintendent, said the plant is being surveyed to determine what production will be profitable in the face of the changing economics in the chemical business.

No new talks were scheduled to discuss the wage situation.

Pirates Raid Paris Labels

PARIS SILHOUETTES... These are two important new fashions from the spring collection of Jean Patou. Left, the inverted flower silhouette for evening, with full skirt, stem waist and shoulder drape in leaf-like tiers; right, simple daytime dress with frame neckline, nipped-in waist, and skirt narrower and shorter.

By FLORENCE MILLS
AP Newsfeatures

Paris—Pirates are at work in Paris. Not the kind of pirates that hustle interesting barrels into eerie caves at dead of night but the kind that steal French fashion designs.

This piracy is rampant this spring and is reaching an all-time high. At least four offenders have been caught at dead of night but the kind that steal French fashion designs.

At Christian Dior's press opening a woman was discovered sketching and was personally escorted out by Dior who tore up the sketches to the applause of the audience.

Later an Italian was suspected but no evidence was immediately found. He was conducted to a dressing room and searched. Sketches were found concealed in his underpants.

Many precautions are taken to keep undesirables away from the shows. Anyone requesting an invitation has to produce a passport which reveals his certified profession. If the person turns out to be a designer or in any way connected with the "rag" trade, then the fashion house demands a stake of about $200 as guarantee that at least one dress will be bought. The dress usually costs much more than this amount but the stake is forfeited altogether if the person doesn't buy.

The pirates usually operate in a gang. The designs are sold at a good price to small-time countries in Europe, especially Italy. The little copyist in France operates too but she is very much under the eye of the law. These houses are periodically raided and if exact copies of patterns are found the copyist is liable to be fined heavily and have her establishment closed for about three months.

Seamstresses with access to the mill patterns sometimes get in the way of professional pirates. They are paid a negligible amount for running off copies of the patterns.

$627 Average Is Paid For Cattle In Amarillo Sale

AMARILLO, March 3.—(AP)—Seventy-nine registered Hereford cattle averaged $627 here to mark the highest auction average of the Panhandle Hereford feeders sale.

The sale was held yesterday.

Lyn McClelland of Lubbock paid the top price of the day, $2,275, for Belwin Aster, 14th, grand champion of the show. He was owned by Alfred Meeks of Dalhart.

on the fly. This was found to be the case last year at two famous houses but, when the gang was caught, the designers forgave the workgirls and allowed them to continue to work.

There is a form of piracy that cannot be combatted. A buyer often includes in his or her entourage a sketcher with a good memory who takes in every detail of certain dresses. The buyer usually buys the most difficult to copy model and relies on the sketcher for the rest. They actually buy one dress plus all the latest ideas.

Dresses in Paris designed by a good couturier start at about $6,000 (francs $200) and cost anything up to $20,000 (francs $600). Buyers for the retail and wholesale trade pay roughly 33-1/3 per cent more.

Watch Deductions When You Prepare Your 1948 Income Tax Return Form

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Watch your deductions. They may save you money in filing your 1948 income tax return.

You can deduct many expenses from your income before what's left is taxable. Some income, tax-exempt, doesn't have to be reported at all.

The law on deductions is a bit different from the last time you filed a return. Congress made changes in it during 1948.

Because deductions are so important, this story, and tomorrow's 11th in a 12-story series, will deal with them.

Some of the points on deductions, mentioned in other stories in this series are repeated today.

The size of your deductions will decide for you the kind of income tax return to use.

There's no problem if your income was less than $5,000 and your deductions were not more than 10 percent of your income.

You'd use form 1040A or the 1040 short-form where you don't have to itemize or even mention your deductions.

If your income was less than $5,000 but your deductions were more than 10 per cent, don't use form 1040A or the 1040 short-form. You'll lose money. Use the 1040 long-form.

But Congress laid down different rules on deductions for taxpayers with $5,000 or more income who are single and for those who are married.

A single taxpayer in this group is allowed a standard, automatic deduction of 10 per cent of his income up to a limit of $1,000 in deductions.

He just takes that 10 per cent. He doesn't have to itemize anything unless his deductions exceed 10 per cent.

It's different with a married couple whose income is $5,000 or more.

If they file a joint return, even though the wife had no income, they get a standard deduction—just like the unmarried man—of 10 per cent up to a limit of $1,000, without itemizing.

But—if one of them files separately or both file separately a flat limit of only $500 in deductions on the return filed.

This may seem unfair to married couples, giving single people a break over them. Congress did it that way to even things up a bit.

Under the new law married couples, filing jointly, get a break—married taxpayers don't get. For, by filing jointly, married couples can "split" their income to get a lower tax, as if each were claiming half the total income.

With the slogan "Smiles Are Fun for Everybody," National Smile Week has been registered with the United States department of commerce, and was inaugurated February 28 and will continue through March 5.

Sponsors of National Smile Week insist that the best tonic this country could get would be a good, old-fashioned smile on more of its citizens and they are going to do something about it. In fact, they are doing something about it.

During the current observance, citizens are being encouraged to remember their friends and loved ones who have birthdays, as well as those who may be lonesome or whose morale is a little low, where a good smile will be particularly beneficial. Special consideration is to be given to veterans in hospitals and individuals.

Local Preaching Mission Nearing Its Conclusion

The Friday morning service starting at ten o'clock will be the final week day service in the present series in the preaching mission now under way at the First Methodist Church. Dr. Edmund Heinsohn will bring the message and Bernard Vessey will lead the singing. Morning services were held Wednesday and Thursday mornings, with Dr. Heinsohn preaching at both services.

The final week night service with Dr. Heinsohn preaching his final sermon will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The service will be held tonight starting at 7:30 o'clock, with special music by Mr. Vessey and the sermon by Dr. Heinsohn.

The Wednesday night service started with the regular Fellowship supper at seven o'clock in the Educational building followed by the preaching service in the church sanctuary at 7:30 o'clock. Special music Wednesday night consisted of a duet by Mr. Vessey and John L. Graelle, and offertory by Mrs. O. W. Holmes at the organ and Mrs. Sam Werner at the piano and a solo by Mr. Vessey, who also led in the congregational singing. Dr. Erwin F. Bohmfalk, the pastor, presided.

Dr. Heinsohn in his sermon Wednesday night stated that Democracy had a big stake in Christianity, and that likewise Chris-

A WARNING PARABLE ON SOILS COMFORTING ONE OF SONSHIP

The Preacher Receives His Vindication—Church Often Impeded By the Pew—Good Soil and Bad Characterize All Life—Forgiveness Life's Greatest Need—Love Never Fails

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS.

A man who during the past generation has been moulding the thought of a considerable segment of the American people, said recently, "The highbrows use big words and a stiff style to express thought, and as themselves not many too clear and definite. Many of them are proud of their obscure words and consider that they are profound when in reality they are only dense. Much of their speech is mere showman's patter. They need to realize that if their ideas cannot be expressed in simple speech, such ideas are probably not worth expressing at all."

In the field of religion this is especially true. In addition to being obscure, much that is written and said about religion today is poisonous. One scarcely knows what would happen to simple religious faith in our day if the humble folk who are hearing and reading seriously the teachings that are current in "intellectual" circles. Fortunately, these publications and addresses rarely hit the understanding of ordinary folk, to whom the ageless words of Jesus are clear and satisfactory.

It was said of Jesus that the common people heard him gladly. For one thing, his speech was simple. Much of the power of preachers like Moody and Spurgeon lay in their ability to dress the highest religious truth in homely, everyday language. Like Jesus, who without a parable spoke not unto his hearers, these great preachers drew their illustrations from the lowly life of everyday and from the familiar scenes which surrounded their hearers.

Simple Truth Simply Told.

We observe this in today's parable of the Sower. From where he sat, Jesus and his hearers could look upon the grain fields, which on the north and west sloped down to the water. Doubtless, while Jesus was talking, there was a Chaldean farmer in view, scattering grain by hand from a bag suspended from his shoulders.

The Parable of the Sower is the simplest and most easily understood of all the parables of Jesus. The field is the world; the seed is the Word of God; the Sower is God Himself. The soil by the wayside represents the hard lives of those who repel the advances of God, and—lest we grow smug and pharisaical—the wayside soil also represents the hard places in your life and mine which have not yet been surrendered to Christ and His way of life. The rocky soil is the thin soil over a stratum of rock, the superficial personalities who, when they hear the Word, respond with enthusiasm until they discover that it costs something to accept the Christian life and maintain it; and then they begin to be listed among the missing. The soil with weed seeds represents the persons of high moral potentialities whose lives get fouled with wrong appetites or overgrown with worldly cares, and eventually the weed seeds choke out the good grain.

The good soil represents the lives which respond to the advances of God and put forth vigorous spiritual growth. All these different kinds of soil are in the lives of us all. The different soils represent the different groups in society and the hazardous and hopeful aspects in our own lives.

God's Love is Real.

But does the Sower care about His soils, which is another way of asking, Does He care for His sons and daughters? The answer to this query is given in the Parable of the Prodigal Son. In this parable we encounter a portrait of God which the evangelist Luke loved always to paint. He loved to emphasize God's father-care for the lost. The wastrel son departs for the far country and eventually goes broke. He had often dreamed of this far country, and when he got there he found it full of boon companions, but he was to learn that it contained no true friends. There were plenty to introduce him to all kinds of expensive sinning, but one bleak morning he awoke to the realization that his money was all gone; and his "friends" also. Then came want, a job in the pigpens heaving carob pods to the hungry swine. At last in that bitter classroom of experience, he learned his lesson. "He came to himself. He realized for the first time that he was his father's son, that the far country held nothing so attractive as his father's house, and that anyone who believes that he (or she) can have a good time by being bad, is a fool. The father's eyes were scanning the horizon for his coming. The father's arms were open to receive him, the father's kisses were poured upon him—he 'kissed him again' and again!"

The Supreme Reality.

And that, said Jesus, is the way God loves. There is forever a straight road back from the far country to the Father's house. There must be repentance, the far country must be forsaken for good. But when it is, there is forgiveness; and this, said Jesus, is the greatest truth in all the universe.

Dr. W. R. White Is Guest Speaker At Teachers Meeting

By CLYDE E. JOHNSON

Navarro county teachers were told Tuesday night that they're playing a vital part—as teachers—in the reconstruction of a confused, changing world.

Speaking on "The teacher as a factor in reconstruction," Baylor University President W. R. White emphasized the need for re-orientation of personalities, re-orientation of the individual and re-definition of certain terminology.

Dr. White was guest speaker at a regular meeting of the county unit of the Texas State Teachers Association in the First Baptist Church. He was introduced by Dr. Jared I. Cartledge, pastor.

"Unique hour," Dr. White said, "told the teachers they lived in a 'unique hour' that differs from the past because today's issues are faced with more seriousness."

Different ideas are advanced to achieve security, he said. Some propose "streamlined democracy" and the abolition of certain individual rights, while others, he said, contend that more real democracy is needed.

"The world democracy is used too loosely," he declared, referring specifically to that term as it was applied to the many nations allied with America during the last war.

"If we're going to reconstruct society along a finer pattern, we must re-orientate ourselves to a new and revolutionary world—or 'war' with its challenges and its problems. In the individual we must apply the cure to the cause of our problems."

The speaker speculated somewhat on the merits of changing diplomacy in the world. Name-calling in the United Nations "may be a pretty good idea," he said, pointing to a former custom of extreme politeness, such as that practiced by Japanese diplomats at a time when their country's bombers were en route to Pearl Harbor. This old form of diplomacy "didn't accomplish much," he said.

Improper Adjustment Moving into the subject of psychology, Dr. White pointed out that confusion, particularly among the world's young people, has resulted because of improper adjustment.

"A higher percentage of persons are in mental institutions now than ever before," he declared, citing the need for "re-integration of personality" and "re-orientation of individuals."

"By re-orientation we mean the adjustment of one's self to his environment, thus giving him a powerful personality. So many of our young people today are confused and at war with themselves. Teachers can assist them in re-integrating their personality."

Poor Salesmen The speaker reminded the educators that teachers have been poor salesmen of a perfect ideology.

Mrs. Craddock, president of the teachers group, opened the meeting which was held in the home of Mrs. J. M. DuBose with Mrs. George Robinson assisting hostess. Mrs. Robinson acted as president in the absence of Dr. White.

Refreshments were served to 13 regular members and two new members, Mrs. Bayliss and Mrs. Ed Gathright.

The club motto was repeated in unison and then the president called reports from the various committees. Mrs. L. C. Vernon, council delegate gave an interesting discussion of the council meeting.

Mrs. Lloyd Kent was elected as secretary. The resignation of Mrs. A. M. Ross was accepted. Mrs. Hardy P. Mayo was elected delegate to the district meeting which is to be held in Palestine April 8-9. Mrs. Garner Dean was elected recreational leader.

Due to the absence of the assistant county agent a round table discussion on "Furnishing a home" was held. Many good ideas were advanced.

Secret friend gifts were exchanged and Mrs. L. C. Vernon won the door prize.

Refreshment plates of cherry pie and whip cream and hot coffee were served to ten members and one guest, Mrs. Sam Crowley.

The next meeting will be Friday, March 11, in the home of Mrs. Garner Dannelley.

Constitutionality Of Planned Court Is In Question

AUSTIN, Tex., March 3—(AP)—Doubt of the constitutionality of a domestic relations court was the main holdup on a bill setting up such a court in Texas.

The house judiciary committee sent the bill, by Rep. Blake Timmons of Amarillo, to a subcommittee last night for more study. The subcommittee was asked to study the constitutionality of the court's jurisdiction and whether the state or county would pay for it.

"Judge W. N. Stokes of the Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo said he would not support the bill unless it was proved constitutional," Timmons said today. Judge Stokes spoke at last night's hearing.

"This would be the first such court in Texas and we maintain it can be proved constitutional," Timmons' bill originally set up the court for Potter and Randall counties, since part of Amarillo is in Randall county. However, he amended it to exclude Randall.

Bill To Provide Dams Is Approved

AUSTIN, Tex., March 3—(AP)—The Lower Colorado River Authority will be permitted to issue an additional $25,000,000 bonds for building hydroelectric dams on the Colorado river, under a bill given 12-1 approval by the house state affairs committee last night.

Rep. Pearce Johnson's bill to make the single change in the LCRA law, raising the limit of revenue bonds which may be issued for new construction from the present 25 to 50 million dollars, was recommended to the house.

A similar bill by Senator Carlos Ashley is pending in the senate state affairs committee.

Grady The Cow In Ill Health After Her Experiences

YUKON, Okla., March 3—(AP)—

And now back to the bedside of Grady the Cow.

You'll want to know how she's doing after getting out of that silo where she trapped herself on Washington's Birthday.

Frankly, Grady isn't feeling so well.

She's bedded down in Bill Mach's best stall, tenderly wrapped in two warm horse blankets. It's still chilly in Oklahoma.

Although the public swarms to see her, Grady isn't able to do much receiving.

She's on a special diet—ground corn and oats, alfalfa hay and cottonseed cake in cubes. It's just the food for an invalid cow on the road to convalescence—but she's only picking at it.

For Grady has been ill.

"We didn't think so at the time," said rancher Mach, "but in coming out of that silo she must have got hurt a bit."

The injuries didn't show up at first. They were to those little piglets where you get the milk. They are very tender, and they were roughly bruised when the $1,000 pure bred Hereford was smeared with axle grease and pushed through the 17 by 25 1/2 inch steel door.

"But she was feeling better this morning, and we're not really worried about her any more. We think she's going to pull through all right," said Mach, who has been tending her with Dr. L. J. Crump, the Yukon.

In spite of Grady's trouble, Mach had nothing but praise for Grady's liberator who set her free five days after she hurried herself into a fit of terror. This was Farm Editor Ralph Partridge of the Denver Post. He flew 700 miles to solve the problem that set North America guessing.

Former Official Of San Francisco Found In Houston

HOUSTON, March 3/P—Chris Jessen Christensen, former San Francisco city official who had been missing over a year until he was found here last night, isn't meeting the public nor the press today.

He is waiting for the arrival of his wife, who thought him dead. No one knows, or is willing to say, just where he is waiting.

Reporters and photographers located him by phone at a downtown hotel, where he spent the night, but by the time they arrived at his room Christensen was gone.

Christensen, 44, said last night he has no plans, that he's just waiting for his wife.

He turned up here last night. "I've been doing what I want to do all day," he said. It was his first day as a Bible salesman. He said his profit was $13.50.

Christensen disappeared Jan. 13, 1948, soon after his election as a city supervisor. He was elected to the 11-man board in 1947. The San Francisco board of supervisors is the governing body of the city and county of San Francisco. (The job would correspond to a county and city commission combination in many other cities and counties of the country.)

Last night in a rambling monologue, Christensen said:

"I went into politics unfortunately—then the pressures came thick and fast... I represented the people and I was going to do a job for the people, but there was a machine set-up. You can't buck it."

Arthur J. Dolan, Jr., chairman of Christensen's campaign, said no pressure was placed on Christensen by his group. Mr. Dolan mentioned in San Francisco.

When the San Francisco man arrived at his rooming house last night Ted Walsh of District Attorney A. C. Winborn's staff and reporters were waiting for him.

They had traced him through an employment agency.

He did not deny his identity, but said he had not known who he was for months.

"I began to get a straight picture of who was three or four months ago," he said.

He had been in office about a week when a note from him was found on the Golden Gate bridge, but he never saw it.

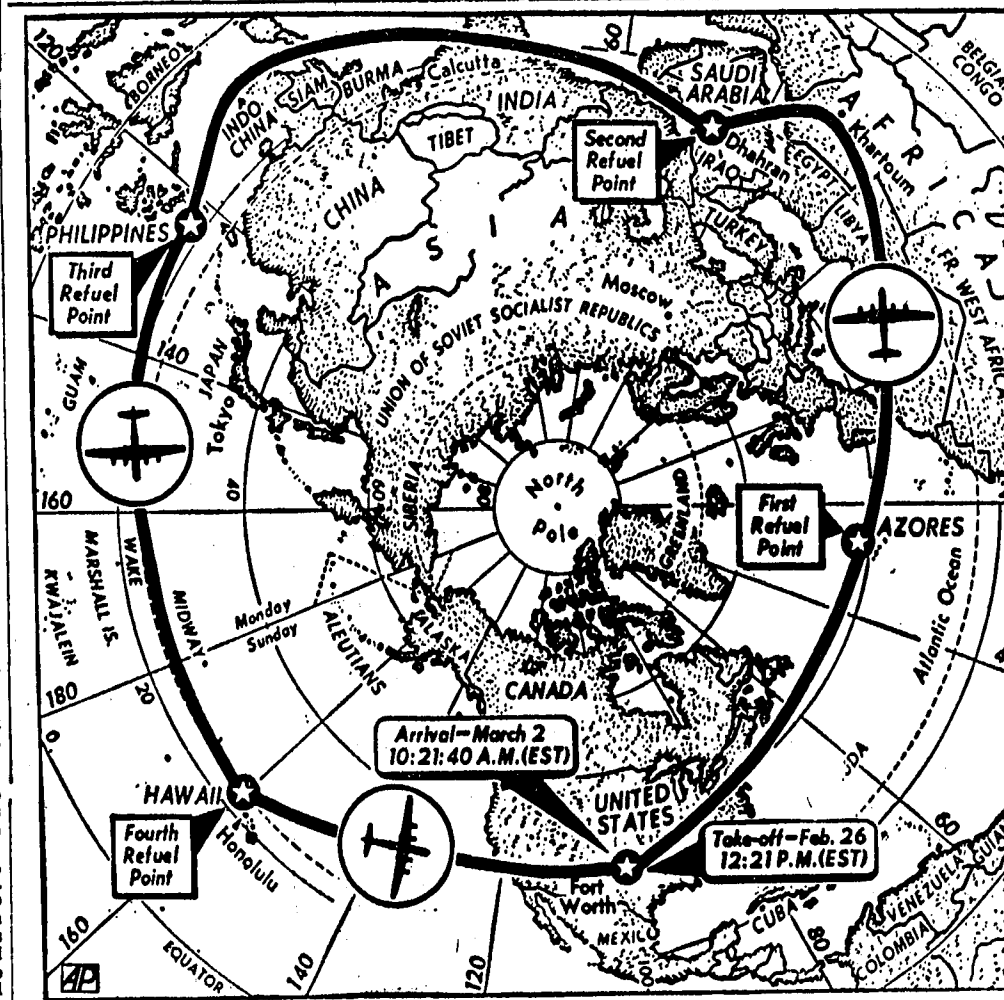

That was the last trace of him until last night.

Since his cost and hat and the disturbing note were found on the bridge his family feared he had jumped.

In San Francisco Christensen has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce and held office in the California Retail Jewelers Association. He was a vice president of Grant Brothers Jewelers.

Brighter Labor Picture Anticipated With Coming Of Spring; February Bad

Officials of the Corsicana office of Texas Employment Commission waved a grateful goodbye to February, with the hopes that it and what it did stay gone.

It was, from the standpoint of labor and non-labor, a very ugly month.

For instance: 1. The month's employment picture swerved further to the left and at the end of the 28-day period total applications for work reached the highest figure since February of 1948.

2. Claims for unemployment benefits continued to climb and, despite the short month, the total exceeded that of January by about 20 percent.

3. New Applications for work compared almost exactly with those of January, each being about double those received in any month since February, 1948.

That, according to W. B. Reedy, manager of the Corsicana office, was about the shape of things as February lapsed out. March lambled in, so to speak.

Work applications on file in February, 1948 totaled 1117, including 208 women and 505 veterans of World War II. Wednesday's figure stood at 1025, including 204 women and 397 veterans.

The low for 1948 was at the end of September when only 478 applications for work were filed.

Weather Blamed The February slump was blamed partly on bad weather, and partly on a general retrenchment in retail and wholesale trades and a smattering of reductions in manufacturing and processing plants, both locally and in other areas where Corsicana people have been employed.

March and April loom as examples of better things to come, Reedy said.

Building Projects Considerable improvements in certain types of employment, particularly agriculture and building trades, is forecast.

"With an exceptional season in the ground, farmers will get into the planting season in a big way during March, and building plans already are on the drawing boards to indicate a decided pickup in the next few weeks," Reedy declared.

"The office building for the Navarro County Electric Cooperative, and the Baptist educational building are the largest projects being planned for immediate action."

"Seasonal activity, such as ice and ice cream manufacturing, and soft drink making, and many other lines will show seasonal pickups as the weather improves."

"New industries for the local area include a cardboard box manufacturing establishment, and a new hat manufacturing plant. Both are expected to be operating soon, but figures as to expected employment totals are not available at this time."

MORE THAN 30,000 BIRTHDAY CAKES ARE LIGHTED FOR PTA IN ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCE

More than thirty thousand birthday cakes, with fifty-two candles each, were lighted in the United States and its territories by as many local units of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on February 17 in meetings and ceremonies in observance of the far-flung organization's Founders' Day. Observances have continued daily since that time.

The observance this year marked the fifty-second anniversary of the parent-teacher organization, which was established February 17, 1897, at a meeting of 2000 women in Washington, D. C. under the leadership of Alice McEllan Birney, first president, and Phoebe Apperson Hearst, mother of William Randolph Hearst.

In her special pro-Founders' Day message to the more than five million members of the National Congress, Mrs. L. W. Hughes of Arlington, Tenn., president, pointed out that "we are pleased to work for the greatest of all national and international resources—the children," and enumerated 16 achievements with which this pledge has been kept. "We have," she said:

1. Encouraged by our example other groups to stand up and be counted whenever and wherever issues involving the welfare of our schools and communities are at stake;

2. Built a backlog of public opinion so strongly in favor of federal aid for education that congressional enactment of a law giving such assistance is now probable in the near future;

3. Prevailed on state and community lawmakers, on boards of education, and on other agencies to appropriate more adequate funds for teachers' salaries and for improved school equipment;

4. Helped to keep our public schools open during the years of war and depression;

5. Donated millions of dollars worth of equipment to make our schools more functional and pleasant for teachers and pupils;

6. Raised thousands of dollars in scholarships for students and prospective teachers;

7. Made it possible for millions of parents and teachers to become acquainted with each other and so better to understand each other's purposes and problems;

8. Established and maintained thousands of hot school lunches, including the growing and canning of large quantities of nourishing foods;

9. Arranged for the health examination of more than 2,000,000 pre-school children in annual summer roundup campaigns;

10. Placed hundreds of new child welfare laws on national, state and local statute books—including more enlightened adoption laws—and kept in force many desirable laws that might otherwise have been allowed to lapse.

Other Achievements. The Parent-Teacher groups have raised standards for the treatment of so-called juvenile delinquents by supporting the establishment of separate courts for minors; sponsored and supported hundreds of teen-age centers and other recreational units to discourage juvenile delinquency; established thousands of study groups concerned with parent education, child development, and home and family life; engaged in scores of civic projects, inter-parity training of lay people for parent education study and discussion groups.

They have also provided training in leadership for thousands of parents and teachers who have before participated actively in civic affairs; they have stressed constantly the need to keep parent-teacher associations democratic in spirit and in action and to respect the integrity and rights of individuals regardless of their race or creed.

Sanford Bingham Is Census Trustee For Corsicana Independent District

The Corsicana Board of Education has elected Sanford Bingham census trustee for the Corsicana Independent School District No. 1, for the year 1949-1950, according to announcement from the office of W. H. Norwood, superintendent.

The enumeration of all school children between the ages of 6 and 18 in the Corsicana independent district, which coincides with the city limits, will be made during the month of March.

The school official requested that parents and guardians see that all students within the school district limits are enumerated, as late as possible.

State Appropriation. On the basis of this enumeration, the state appropriation of $55 will be given the school district with which to carry on next year's work. The school enumerated this past year 3,337 with $74,375, making a net total of 3,755 students for which this appropriation was paid this year. This provided an income in excess of $208,000 which is the largest single item of income for the operation of Corsicana schools, Norwood revealed.

It is the desire of the Board of Education to have every child of proper age who is a resident of the city of Corsicana, listed in the enumeration, with the state compulsory attendance law.

Each year it has been found that in four ways some children have been inadvertently omitted from the roll, and, as has been previously requested, it is hoped that omission, under the following headings will be reported to the Superintendent's office:

1. Those who may have been out of the city during the census taking.

2. Those moving to Corsicana after March 1, 1949.

3. Children who will not be 18 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1949, but because of graduation or other reasons are not now in school.

4. Children under six years old who are not in school, but intend to enter next year, because they will be six years old on or

Statehood Plans For Hawaii Are Given Approval

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—The stock market finished a slow session just about where it started. Gains and losses, mostly in small fractions, maintained a close balance.

Business was unusually light, with turnover at the rate of only 600,000 shares for the full trading day. This would compare with Wednesday's slim 600,000.

Traders more or less ignored the news, which included fresh and pronounced weakness in the London stock market and modification of consumer credit control.

Railroad stocks did comparatively poorly but nowhere was there any sign of aggressive trading.

Higher most of the time were Wrigley, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Gulf States Utilities, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler U. S. Rubber, Distillers Corp., Consolidated Natural Gas, National Air Lines, and Owens-Illinois.

Lower a good part of the day were U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (N.Y.), American Wool, International Paper, Air Reduction, Southern California Edison, and J. I. Case.

Search For Rocket Weapons Is Grim And Elaborate Aspect Of Defense

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The search for massive rocket weapons is grim and elaborate. It rates just under atomic energy in importance in the eyes of military leaders.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, former chief of staff of the Air Force, in his final report to the secretary of his department, revealed how much attention it is getting. From the time the Air Force began guided missile research in 1945, he said, all agreed that the chief objective must be to develop a missile that could fly faster than sound and carry an atomic warhead 5,000 miles.

"Since there is no existing defense against this type of weapon," he said, "it is essential that the United States be the first nation to develop it."

Missiles which fly in the earth's atmosphere are vulnerable to counter-attack. Aircraft can strike them down. But rockets soar far beyond the earth's atmosphere.

The Germans V-2 was a rocket. Its trajectory is similar to that of a cannon. It could not be intercepted. Even the launching base of a rocket has a special advantage for the attacker. It can take off from a mobile unit which might fire a few rounds then move to new grounds before the enemy could learn where the rocket came from.

But enormous scientific problems have to be solved before the very long range heavy rockets are feasible.

The advantage of guided missiles is that they can be controlled in flight. But the control depends upon the use of stabilizers which must move through air if they are to be of any use. Rocket control could be exercised only in the relatively short distance it flew through the air, a few moments on the upward and downward paths.

One answer might be the space ship, now being seriously considered by scientists. It would fly under rocket power beyond the pull of the earth's gravity. It would follow a direct radar beam straight to the earth, forming a patch for the rocket missile.

Once in the general area of the target, a pinpoint landing is now easily conceivable. Some Air Force bombs are controlled by mechanisms by which the bomb steers itself toward a source emitting heat or light.

Rocket fuels present a particularly nasty problem for the men who would use them under wartime conditions. They are described this way in the current issue of the "Anti-Aircraft Journal" by Lt. Col. Howard B. Hudiburg and Lt. Richard G. Thomas:

"In many cases the fuels are highly toxic or otherwise injurious to personnel, are highly inflammable, and, in most cases, self-igniting, and some have the habit of not lending readily to storage over extended periods of time."

"You may easily visualize the problems that a guided missile service unit would encounter moving a huge, mobile liquid-air generator and a train of tank trucks transporting red, fuming nitric acid over difficult road-net under enemy fire."

The weight of a big rocket is another baffling problem. Wiley Lay made some estimates on this in a recent article in the "Ordnance Magazine." Lay is a German rocket expert who came to this country in 1935.

He said a rocket shooting 600 miles or farther would weigh 30 tons with a one-ton warhead, 840 tons with a three-ton warhead.

But scientists say that most of the problems are gradually being solved. The Air Force recently placed an order with Consolidated Vultee for a rocket which can soar to altitudes of 100 miles or more. The Army and Navy also have under development rockets which can go that high. Curtis-Wright recently revealed that it is engaged in secret government research on a rocket which would have a speed of 3,000 miles per hour.

Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, vice chief of staff of the Air Force, recently told a congressional committee that

Colorful Spring Silhouettes Are Modeled At Annual Style Show Luncheon Presented Here

A colorful Spring fashion revue by the J. M. Dyer Company attracted two hundred and fifty club house members and guests to an attractively appointed luncheon at Kinsloe House Wednesday. In a gala setting of jonquills, violets, and daffodils artistically arranged by Mesdames M. E. Savage, B. V. Piper, and E. J. Womack, and against a soft pianistic background by Billie Dan Clark, fashions for everyone in the family except father were on parade.

Modeling the fifty or more costumes and accessories which illustrated the various style trends, types and color tie-ups, in the fanciful names of Dame Fashion, were Mrs. Helen Marchbanks, Mrs. W. J. McKie, Mrs. L. A. Leediker, Mrs. Jack Love, Mrs. Edwin Davis, of Dawson, Miss Pat Trimble and Miss Jane Jackson.

CHAMPION STUFF . . . Gretchen Fraser of Sun Valley, Olympic alom champion, wears Picard's long, loose white poplin parka with belt and multi-stripe trim.

Mrs. Trimble in Charge of Show Mrs. Aline Trimble, Style Show Chairman of Kinsloe House for the past eleven years, welcomed members and guests and expressed appreciation to Mesdames Fred E. Owen and Ben McKie of the Style Show Committee, Mrs. J. Dave Walker of the Finance Committee, Billie Dan Clark for the pianistic background, Glenn Thompson for public address system, Mrs. M. E. Savage and members of Decorations Committee, Mesdames J. S. Mitchell and Varnell for Spring flowers, and Mrs. J. R. Copeland for assistance for a splendid luncheon plate and the J. M. Dyer Company for an outstanding fashion event and the diminutive bottles of perfume that marked covers for the luncheon personnel.

Fashion Commentator Mrs. Trimble next presented Miss Ruth Spencer of the J. M. Dyer Company as fashion commentator for the day. Miss Spencer referred to the showing as one of the most colorful ever staged by the J. M. Dyer Company, since color is the dominant theme of today's fashion picture. "Even traditional Spring navy is handled in a new manner, often has a new cast, and serves as background for a wide color range of accessories," she said.

To bring you this show, Mr. Dyer made two trips to New York, Mrs. Bill Cruise was in New York twice, Mr. Bailey made one trip to New York, and Mr. Dyer also went to Los Angeles to select the finest of California designs, Miss Spencer advised.

Prelude to Show Three-year-old Harold Hardgrave, in a Kayne tailored Spring suit, led Mrs. Aline Trimble's class of five-year-old girls into the Kate Whiteside Auditorium and to the stage. Wearing attractive pink pinafores of pastel-hued organdy and dotted Swiss, Jennifer White, Carol Jenkins, Lynda Lanier, Pat Hardgrave, Troy Gregory and Donna Crowley served as models for the Children's Department of the J. M. Dyer Company.

At the conclusion of the "pinafore parade" Harold Hardgrave sang "Ain't She Sweet?" with his piano, and then joined the "pinafore girls" in a rendition of "Oh You Beautiful Doll".

Showing of Suits Mrs. Helen Marchbanks modeled an Adele Simpson suit of beautiful textured white. Miron worsted as the opening feature of the showing of adult fashions. It was recommended for city places and im-mother, Mrs. H. L. Hardgrave at important occasions, the commentator pointed out. A coffee-colored Miron gabardine suit, designed with belted jacket and hand-needed lapels, and buttoned up to Spring fashion in both jacket and skirt, was worn by Mrs. W. J. McKie. One of the famous new jib-jacket suits of Adele Simpson was shown by Mrs. Jack Love. Designed with a jaunty bolero, a blouse of silk surah, and featuring a skirt with semipog pockets and double width waistband, the suit was one of the newest styles displayed.

A tangy-toned darker-than-neutral suit, worn by Miss Pat Trimble, was recommended for those who desire a smart look this Spring. The wheat to russet tones were suggested as having endless possibilities for combining accessories.

Adele Simpson suit of yarn dyed greige woolen, frosted with an Irish linen collar, a ripple-tail jacket and a back swirling skirt, was modeled by Miss Jane Jackson, and proved easy to wear and flattering.

An eye-catching checked suit by Fred A. Block was shown by Mrs. Helen Marchbanks. The brief jacket terminated in a mandarin neckline, and a striking flamingo red silk shantung form of the collar of the crisp white blouse.

The Swansdown Miron gabardine coat worn by Mrs. L. A. Leediker featured Directoire lines that gave slimness and an unbroken fashion line from shoulder to hemline. The color was mocha and would team easily with neutral, navy, brown or even black accessories, Miss Spencer advised.

Top-Flight Designers Capri, a top-flight designer, was responsible for the butterfly bolero suit dress modeled by Mrs. W. J. McKie. It was designed with crisp, flowing shirley and baby collar of embroidered organdy, and a rapier-slim skirt with buttons marching its entire length.

Spring's aristocrat-navy — was manipulated by Paul Parnes into a beauty of dress. Shantung and softened for daytime flattery, it was fashioned with a so-deep neckline with navy lace embellishment. It was worn by Mrs. L. A. Leediker with a Howard Hodge designed hat.

A bolero suit of avocado green, topping a skirt with high-riding waistline and teamed with a smart Bamboo Koret bag and candy-stamped cord with a red rose, was worn by Mrs. Edwin Davis of Dawson. Mrs. Davis also modeled a coat of oatmeal tweed, tied with a narrow string belt of leather.

A Paul Parnes suit of American Beauty silk shantung, worn with a balbuntli straw topped with a navy rose, and a Koret bag of navy, was displayed by Miss Jane Jackson. The fabric of the suit was especially recommended for its crisp texture, and its resistance to wrinkling.

A shirtwaist dress of iridescent Shantung, flared at the cuffs and flared at the collar, was worn with an Ere Novelle cartwheel flanged at the edge to add softness and flattery. Mrs. Jack Love modeled the dress that gave the new look to the great American shirtwaist dress.

Miss Pat Trimble wore a print bolero model of silk Shantung that was described by the commentator as a neat little town dress. Remove the bolero for a bare-topped sun fashion, Miss Spencer advised.

Beaded Suit One of the handsomest suits in the show was the dressmaker suit worn by Mrs. Leediker. Fred A. Block used shimmering beads to cover the lapels as a means of bringing the glamour of the past into the fashions of the present. Mrs. Leediker carried a handbag fashioned of matching beads, and wore a pill box with mauve veiling and rose cluster with brush

Dr. W.R. Matthews Engaged To Head Meat Inspection

The city had moved Tuesday to streamline its meat inspecting procedure.

Mayor Hubert T. Braselton announced that Dr. W. R. (Buck) Matthews of Athens, a veterinarian, had been engaged to head the meat inspection department.

He will handle it all, including the actual inspection of slaughtering animals, and will replace two men.

As it has been, Dr. W. A. Wilson, local veterinarian, has been paid $200 a month to head the unit, and Arthur Levi, former meat shop owner, has been paid $200 a month for doing the actual inspecting.

Mayor Braselton said Dr. Matthews will be paid a minimum of $300 a month to handle both jobs, with a ceiling of $350 if fees reach that total.

The mayor said he had conferred with Dr. Wilson and the veterinarian said the solution was satisfactory to him. Levi has been given 15-days notice of the change, Mayor Braselton said.
